

Pre-Trip Checklist for a Happy Romantic Getaway

You have planned on a romantic getaway with your special someone and have been really looking forward to enjoying yourselves on the trip to Vietnam. Before you leave the door and catch that plane, here is a checklist for you so that you come back from the trip with a smile and sweet memories. In order to have a great romantic getaway and also to avoid any bad vibes on the trip, it is best that you take care of the things in the checklist.

The first and the most important step is to know your destination. Ensure that you know about the destination and also the reason behind choosing the location. Make a list of romantic things that you plan to look at during your stay. This would help you save time and also to enjoy your trip more. Prepare a schedule for the trip. Even if it comprises of soaking the sun on the beach or relaxing at the spa, make a program for the trip about what you would like to do when on your dream vacation.

Always book your flight tickets and apply Vietnam visa if you travel to Vietnam before-hand and do not leave it to the last minute. If you are booking on your own, keep in mind the inter-island flights which would be extra. Be clear about the relay flight so as not to inconvenience you while on the trip. If you overlook any of the details while booking your flight, you might end up missing the flight or even shelling out for a flight.

You may need different clothing depending upon the activities you have planned on your vacations. Make sure you have all the things packed according to the climate of the area you are visiting. Most important of all; if it is a surprise trip for your partner, ensure that they pack according to the region you plan on visiting.

In case you plan on traveling out of the country, keep your passports up to date. It would not help you in any way if at the last minute you realize that your passport is about to expire and you cannot travel. Be aware of any immunizations that might be required before entering another country. Some immunizations need to be taken over a period of days or weeks, therefore be sure to take these as required.

On the first evening of your arrival at your destination, make plans for an evening together. It might be possible that you are tired and do not feel like interacting with anyone else. This would be an excellent opportunity to spend time in each other's company. Make full use of the room service and have your food delivered to your room. Make the evening about the two of you.

Plan ahead for at least a couple of romantic meals together. Enquire at the hotel which you have booked a room on Hotels in Hoi An or Da Nang, you are staying about the romantic restaurants around where you both could go and enjoy some quality time. Keep all your valuables in a secure place, if you are not carrying them along for the journey, which anyways is not a great idea. Knowing that your valuables are safe back home, you will not spend time fretting over worries.

Plan for things that both of you like to do as a couple. Pack things which both of you enjoy as a couple. Remember, it is an 'us' time and not just another vacation. The most important tip is to have some good fun together so that the vacation becomes a part of your memory of good times spent in the company of your lover.

Enjoy, relax and have fun, get to know the other person so that you can appreciate each other.
